German Pilot Is Guest In Chicago

Von Gronau Lands Ship on Lake Michigan Late Tuesday

CHICAGO.—(P)—Captain Wolfgang von Gronau, German transatlantic flier, completed the first scientific flight between Germany and Chicago over the northern circle route Tuesday.

Von Gronau brought his huge twin-motored flying boat, the Greenland Wal, down on Lake Michigan off the loop at 6:10 p. m., Chicago daylight time, six hours and ten minutes after he took off on the last of the pathfinding cruise, from Long Lake, Ont.

Only a few hundred aviation enthusiasts and civic leaders witnessed the landing. News of the take-off reached Chicago late, and this probably held down the crowd.

The Greenland Wal was towed into custom collector's docks to be put through the routine examination after which Von Gronau and his crew, Copilot E. Zimmer, Radio Operator F. Albrecht and Mechanic F. Hack, were taken to a hotel, where a formal reception awaited them.

"The flight was a great success," Captain Von Gronau said.

One of the first to greet the captain was Miss Bertha Seelemann-mirou, his secretary, who preceded him to America by boat.

The successful conclusion of the flight marked Captain Von Gronau's second trip over the northern route. Last year he flew from Germany to New York.

The flight finished Tuesday was begun August 9 from the island of Lint Sylt on the north seacoast of Germany, stops were made in Iceland, Greenland and Canada to study the weather conditions and to gather other data for possible establishment of regular air service between the eastern and western hemispheres over this route.

It was while pioneering this route in the last few weeks that Parker Cramer and Oliver Paquette, American fliers, were lost at sea after virtually completing the flight.

Contract Is Let for Arkansas Auto Tags

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—The S. G. Adams company of St. Louis was awarded a contract Tuesday by the state highway commission for furnishing approximately 250,000 auto license tags to the department for use in 1932.

A low bid of $16,902.78 was submitted by the Adams company in competition with five other bidding firms.

Chairman Dwight H. Blackwood of the highway commission said the license tags for 1932 will be orange letters and figures on a black background, with the figures in an italic design, instead of the block style used many years.

Undertaker Held Under Bond of $500

H. C. Sibert Charged in Removing Tombstone From Grave

DEQUEEN, Ark.—H. C. Sibert, 35-year-old DeQueen undertaker, was under $500 bond here Tuesday on a charge of stealing a tombstone from the grave of a soldier killed in the World War.

Sheriff Jim Sutton, who found the simple government marker at a Texarkana marble works, brought it back to the cemetery Tuesday and installed it again at the head of the fallen soldier's grave.

The sheriff said the name of Jim Watts, "killed in action" was still engraved on the marble slab when he discovered it at the Texarkana plant Monday.

Another monument, which had stood at the grave of a youth killed in an automobile crash several years ago, also was found at Texarkana, but its owner told officers he had given Sibert permission to remove it.

Relatives of the dead soldier, however, asserted that no one had been authorized to remove the marker.

No preliminary hearing will be held for the undertaker, the case going directly to the Sevier county grand jury for investigation.

WASHINGTON.—(P)—In 62 days of the new fiscal year the government has rolled up a deficit of $396,000,000.

Just two months ago the treasury ended the 1931 fiscal year with a deficit of $903,000,000, but this was wiped out by the addition to the public debt.

Williams Mill Is Formally Opened; 60 Are Employed

Sheridan Operators Complete Rebuilding Hope Lumber Co. Plant

BUYING UP TIMBER

Lumbering Activities Resumed Throughout Two Counties

J. L. Williams & Sons formally reopened the old Hope Lumber company mill Wednesday, and announced that the rebuilt and enlarged plant is now employing 60 men and buying lots of timber from all over Hempstead and Nevada counties.

The well known Sheridan lumber firm, which bought the Hope Lumber company plant at a receiver's sale early in the summer is represented here by two of the sons, J. R. and O. R. Williams, who have moved from Sheridan to mill near their homes in Hope.

J. R. Williams is manager, and O. R. Williams is office manager. The Williams brothers announced that the 60 men now employed will be their minimum payroll through the winter, but the number may be increased considerably.

The Williams & Sons mill is manufacturing everything in lumber, selling at wholesale and retail. The plant is milling yellow pine and hardwood lumber, bought locally.

Resumption of activity at the mill has caused lumbering operations throughout the Hope trade territory to come to life again after lying dormant for many months.

Seattle Broker Held in Arkansas

Much Sought Head of Closed Investment Firm Arrested

SEATTLE.—(P)—A five months search which led all the way across the United States and into Mexico ended Tuesday in Hot Springs, Ark., with the locating of Paul E. Williams, who fled from Seattle last spring after the closing of his brokerage house, Sheriff Claude G. Bannick said Tuesday night.

Bannick arraigned a warrant for Williams' arrest on grand larceny charges to Hot Springs authorities and said immediate steps would be taken for his extradition.

The brokerage house, known as Paul E. Williams & Co., had offices in Seattle, Spokane, Bellingham and Walla Walla as well as the principal cities of California and in New York.

Deputy Prosecutor Arthur E. Bailey Jr., said shortages in the accounts of the different offices would total "more than $1,000,000."

A specific charge against Williams, Bailey said, accused him of stealing $175 worth of stock which Miss Ruth B. Wells, Seattle, had entrusted to him, as collateral for the purchase of other shares.

The deputy prosecutor said as soon as Williams was brought back to Seattle he will be charged with grand larceny on from 20 to 30 other counts.

Employee of Bank Steals Huge Sum

Takes Over $1,500,000 From Chicago Financial Institution

CHICAGO.—An embezzlement reported to exceed $1,500,000 in the Bond Department of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company, was revealed by officers of the bank Tuesday. The bank is fully protected by insurance.

The embezzler is Walter Wolf, 42, a trusted employee for 20 years and until last week end manager of the bank's Coupon Department. Wolf has made a full confession, the announcement said.

An audit of the hundreds of millions of dollars in securities to which Wolf had access was in progress. Wolf had admitted purloining from these securities over a period of years, posting the stolen securities as margins with brokers in order to speculate in stocks and grains. His method was to abstract securities coming into his possession after properly giving the customer a receipt. He would also abstract the records.

When it became necessary to account for the securities, he would withdraw from the brokers the securities he had stolen, return them to the bank, and maintain his margin by substituting other securities, similarly abstracted.

The report in La Salle street was that the amount embezzled would exceed $1,500,000. From Lloyds, the London insurance company under which the bank employees are bonded, came an estimate of $3,000,000. It was said that up to Tuesday night $1,300,000 had been checked up as missing.

Photographs of Banker Destroyed

All Papers Found Missing in the Home of A. T. Hudspeth

HARRISON, Ark.—Prosecuting Attorney Jack Holt revealed Tuesday night that photographs and other papers were found destroyed at the home of A. T. Hudspeth, well known financier, whose group of nine banks in this section closed Tuesday after receipt of a letter from Hudspeth saying "when this is in print, I'll be in Canada."

Holt said he had been unable to locate Mrs. Hudspeth, and her son and daughter, who left Friday for Cleveland, Okla., ostensibly to visit relatives. Hudspeth left also on that date, he said, to borrow money at St. Louis with which to pay county deposits which were to have been withdrawn Tuesday from his banks. Holt said he was informed the Hudspeths had not arrived at Cleveland.

Use of Women Informers in Raids Is Ordered to Be Stopped

Dell laid his case before Woodcock for nearly two hours Wednesday morning and later Woodcock said because of the agents excellent record in the army and as a dry agent he would be returned to duty in Buffalo.

A court charge contributing to delinquency of a minor still is pending against Dell in Buffalo.

"I abhor this whole incident, Woodcock said, it is terrible anyone should conceive of this way to enforce the prohibition laws."

The prohibition department recently issued orders against the use of women informers.

Nationwide Search For Harrison Bank President Started

State Bank Department Not to Investigate Trouble at Marshall

MONEY DEMANDED

Nine Banks Close After President A. T. Hudspeth Leaves Country

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—State Banking Commissioner W. A. Taylor said Wednesday that he did not consider an investigation of the reported invasion of the closed Bank of Marshall Tuesday by a group of twenty-five farmers who demanded and received $5,000 of their deposits within the jurisdiction of his department, as the bank at that time was not in the hands of the state bank examiner.

Meanwhile Sheriff Hogg at Marshall said he planned no action unless the bank examiner expected to arrive Tuesday, asked him to take it.

The Bank of Marshall was one of the nine banks of A. T. Hudspeth's group, which closed Tuesday after receipt of a letter from Hudspeth saying that he was on his way to Canada, and that he assumed all blame for the closing.

A nationwide search is under way for Hudspeth, whom prosecuting attorney Holt charged in a warrant for his arrest that he accepted deposits in the bank at Harrison, knowing the bank to be insolvent.

Council Accused in Police Quarrel

Six of Aldermen 'Wet,' Porter Quotes Chief as Saying

The Hope city council heard the particulars Tuesday night of how the police department dropped one officer and took on another—and was told by the officer who was "fired" that the prohibition views of the aldermen had something to do with the case.

Will Porter, night policeman who was replaced Tuesday morning by Frank Ward, former teacher and political candidate, appeared before the council Tuesday night to complain of his discharge by Chief of Police Claude Stuart.

Mr. Porter said Chief Stuart was prejudiced against him and had asked for his resignation, and when this was refused, proceeded to "fire" him.

Mr. Porter told the council that Chief Stuart was easily "poisoned against a man," and said the chief was also prejudiced against the city council.

"I made a proposition to the chief that we clean up the liquor sellers in Hope," said Mr. Porter. "But the chief told me he was handicapped because six of the eight aldermen were 'wet' and wouldn't stand for it."

Further progress was reported by Mayor John Vesey on the proposal to establish an adequate municipal dumping ground. The council approved first-of-the-month bills.

Shirley Crank To Be Surrendered

Attorney Announces He Will Give Up to Face Raid Charges

TEXARKANA, Ark.—Shirley Crank, sought as the owner of nearly 500 gallons of whisky and wine found in a house at Garland City last week, will be surrendered to Sheriff R. W. Turquette this week, possibly Wednesday or Thursday, his attorney, Ned Stewart, of Lewisville, said here Tuesday.

"I do not know where Shirley Crank is, but I have means of getting in touch with him," said Stewart. "I have been busy in circuit court and have not had time to look into the charges. I understand, however, that Crank is charged with possession of whisky for the purpose of sale."

That is the specific charge against the Garland City man. Conviction carries a maximum fine of $1000 and no jail sentence. County officers believe federal prohibition agents also will file charges against Crank, however.

Crank is a large property holder in Miller county and Sheriff Turquette Tuesday held no apprehension that he would attempt to avoid arrest indefinitely.

It has been indicated that his plea will be that he had not lived in the house where the whisky was found for several months. Officers found it untenanted and locked when the raid was staged.

Accused of Auto Theft, Tries Escape

Makes Effort to Get Out of the County on Horse Back

More than $10,000 of the ransom money was recovered and a complete explanation obtained of how the kidnaping was executed, police said.

At the same time detectives trusted, by the captures, a plot of the hand to put one of their own number "on the spot" for splitting only $2,000 of the $50,000 with them.

The decoy, a 28-year-old negro woman, was identified by Rosenthal, who said her extremely light complexion led to the belief she was white.

The captures were made here, in Atlantic City and in Newark. John Markham and Nicholas Green, said to be a hotel proprietor, were arrested here.

Then detectives, acting on a tip, went to Newark and battered their way into an expensively furnished apartment, where they arrested John Rocco and Theodore Adnolfi. They confessed to the kidnaping only after detectives produced a list of the serial numbers on the bills which the ransom was paid.

Statements made by the prisoners led to the happy departure of Rosenthal and a police inspector by plane for Atlantic City. There Bettina Green, alias Stewart, a negro maid, was arrested.

Keith waived examination and his bond was set at $1,000. He was released on bond Wednesday morning.

Meanwhile, authorities were planning to arraign him on additional charges at a hearing to be held Thursday.

Kidnapers of Broker Arrested

Remembered as Leader of Orchestra Rhythm Leads to Arrest

NEW YORK.—(P)—A Chicago man who lived Charles Rosenthal into the hands of a kidnaping band, police said, and the four men who held the young broker prisoner 17 days in a dark tenement house apartment were rounded up by authorities Tuesday.

The arrests came about indirectly because of Rosenthal's ability to recognize the music of an orchestra in a night club near where he had been held for payment of $50,000 ransom part of which has been recovered by police.

As he sat night after night in his temporary prison, handcuffed and with glasses covered with adhesive tape on his eyes, the music drifted through an open window and he memorized the peculiar rhythm.

After his release when detectives took him on a tour of night clubs he picked out the one near where he had been held from the music and thus the apartment was located and the gang captured.

More than $10,000 of the ransom money was recovered and a complete explanation obtained of how the kidnaping was executed, police said.

At the same time detectives trusted, by the captures, a plot of the hand to put one of their own number "on the spot" for splitting only $2,000 of the $50,000 with them.

The decoy, a 28-year-old negro woman, was identified by Rosenthal, who said her extremely light complexion led to the belief she was white.

Statements made by the prisoners led to the happy departure of Rosenthal and a police inspector by plane for Atlantic City. There Bettina Green, alias Stewart, a negro maid, was arrested.

The five prisoners face a maximum sentence of 50 years.

Credit Due Americans

In a recent issue of Liberty Magazine by Jay C. Mahan, the extremely critical and iconoclastic Washington publicist, calls attention to a factor in the present depression that has got far less attention than it deserves—namely, that the American people lately have been displaying a great deal more common sense and levelheadedness than most people give them credit for possessing.

Mahan points out something that everyone knows—the depression is highly painful and a trying experience. He reminds us that our highbrow writers have spent the last decade calling the average American a colossal dumb-bell.

You'd expect a bunch of morons like the American people to turn in a riot call, barbecue their politicians and bankers for a ride. But they didn't. In the worst case of our national history we've had no Coxey's army, no strikes, no big strikes and no martial law.

The American people has kept its temper and kept its head, and made monkeys out of the panicky 100-per cent patriots who have acted as though high wages were all that stood between the country and bloody revolution. The American people may be foolish, but they don't act like fools in an emergency.

With a minor exception or two, the gentleman is right. We have a radical strike on our hands these days, and the radical has had labor troubles here and there. For the most part, however, his statement holds good. The nation has been singularly peaceful in the face of trouble. Six million men have lost their jobs—and the most radical move that has been made has been the mild suggestion that the federal government might help them buy food until they get their jobs back.

All in all, it is a remarkably encouraging record. The American workman has had plenty of excuse for falling for various "isms" if he cared to, but he hasn't done it. Instead he has simply said, "Let me have a job again and we'll call it quits."

—And Moses Knew

FRANK C. CARPENTER, whose World Travels are a part of our library, tells in his volume "From Tangier to Tripoli" how it is that the Mohammedans pray five times a day. In describing Kairouan, the holy city near Tunis, he relates this version of Mohammed's visit with God in the seventh heaven:

"As Mohammed dropped down from the seventh heaven he met Moses, who asked him what the Lord had required. The Prophet replied that God wanted mankind to make fifty prayers every day. Moses told Mohammed that this was impossible, as he knew from his own experience with the children of Israel, and that he had better return and ask the Lord to reduce the number. The number was cut down to forty. Moses sent him back again and again, until at last it was made only five. Moses thought this was too many, but Mohammed replied that he had already asked the Lord's indulgence until he was ashamed, and so the prayers made by Mohammedans remain five to this day."

Need More Holidays

THE action of the state of California in blowing itself to a six-day general holiday, beginning on September 4, raises a question that ought to get a lot of consideration in this country.

That question, of course, is, "Do we have enough holidays?" California's answer seems to be an emphatic "No!" and California's idea is one that the other states might well mull over for a while.

To be sure, California's extended holiday comes more or less by accident. On September 4 a big Fiesta opens in Los Angeles, with the governor in attendance. On the next day the state fair opens in Sacramento. The following day, of course, is Sunday, and the next day is Labor Day—a legal holiday anyway. Two days later comes Admission Day, which is a state holiday.

Thus the action isn't quite as radical as it looks. Besides, it probably won't affect most business houses. But it does point a way which most Americans, probably, would be glad to follow.

In the first place, most people work too hard and too steadily. Despite all the current talk about the American's inability to use his leisure time properly, the simple fact is that the ordinary citizen doesn't have a great deal of leisure time. We could all do with a lot more. We have never really learned the virtues of laziness.

In the second place, it has been demonstrated rather painfully in recent years that we have been too productive for our own good. Most of our troubles today spring from the fact that we make things faster than we can sell them. We don't have enough holidays.

Already it is quite respectable to speak of the five-day working week as a desirable goal. This California proposition slides right down the same alley. Less work, more holidays—well, why not? You could easily find some very reputable economists to furnish excellent dollars-and-cents arguments in support of the plan.

GUILTY LIPS

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN
Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pretty NORMA KENT, 20-year-old secretary in a law office, sees MARK TRAVERS for the first time when they rescue a puppy from downtown traffic in Marlboro, middle-western metropolis. Norma declines to tell Travers her name or where she set her again.

BOB FARRELL, young lawyer, asks Norma to marry him and she refuses, though she is fond of him as a friend. Norma takes the puppy to the shabby apartment she shares with CHRISTINE SAUNDERS. She fears Chris is falling in love with her morose employer BRADLEY HART, proprietor of an advertising agency. Norma inserts an advertisement about the puppy in a newspaper and found column and the first person to answer is Mark Travers. A small boy comes to claim the puppy and takes it home.

Norma goes for a drive with Bob Farrell and he tells her he is leaving Marlboro. Two days later she sees Mark Travers on the street and goes to lunch with him. This is the beginning of a whirlwind courtship. Norma finds herself head-over-heels in love but thinks she must send Travers away because of some secret of the past. Chris declares if Norma loves Travers all else is unimportant.

Mark is invited to dinner at the apartment. Norma is there alone when a caller arrives. He tells her she is married. Travers and Norma quarrel. Travers demands her name with his son about end. In the midst of a heated speech, Mark appears. Travers and Norma quarrel. Travers demands her name with his son about end. In the midst of a heated speech, Mark appears. Travers and Norma quarrel. Travers demands her name with his son about end. In the midst of a heated speech, Mark appears.

Norma drew herself away. "It really is terrible," she agreed. "Goodness, it must be—why, look!—nearly 11 o'clock! Oh, Mark, think of all the things we should be doing! They won't have any idea at the office what's become of me. Mr. Brooks will be furious—"

"Let 'em worry. You're never going back there again."

"But, Mark, don't you think—"

A KNOCK at the door interrupted. It was the waiter who had come to take away the breakfast table. As he was leaving Mark took out his wallet and stuffed a bill into the man's hand. The waiter bowed, murmured thanks and departed.

Mark did not replace the wallet. Instead he opened it again, drew out a collection of coins and greenbacks and looked at them. A rueful smile spread over his face. He scratched his chin meditatively.

"There was exactly $90 in that wallet yesterday," he announced. "Ninety-six dollars." Suddenly the bright grin returned. "Madame!" he declared with dramatic eloquence, "with all my worldly goods I thee endow! Thirteen dollars and forty-five cents! Count 'em. Thirteen dollars!" He flung the contents of the purse into the girl's lap.

He was laughing and Norma laughed, too. "This was evidently a joke. She gathered the money together.

"But you don't really mean it!" she protested. "Not—$90! You couldn't have spent all that in one day. Why it's more than three weeks' salary!"

Mark reversed the wallet, held it up, shaking it. "Must have spent it," he said. "It was here! You know," he went on, frowning as though in deep thought, "that's the queerest thing about money. I've thought of it before. Amazing thing! One moment you have it and the next it's gone. Have you ever noticed it?"

"Have I noticed it? Not oftener than every third day after pay day for the last three years! Ever since I've been working—"

Business Women's Club Hold Meeting

Mrs. McDonald, State President, Is Guest Tuesday Night

The Business & Professional Women's club met in regular session Tuesday night at the Barlow Hotel, with Miss Jean Laster as hostess. The round dining table, was centered with a tall vase of roses, flanked with clematis. Place cards were cleverly silhouettes.

The program opened by repeating the Club Collect, led by Miss Mamie Twitcheil; and a program on vocational guidance followed the serving of a delicious dinner. Miss Laster presented Miss Beryl Henry, who spoke on vocational guidance in public schools; she stressed the need of this, and of teachers who had the ability to direct the students in the work for which they were most fitted.

A clever intelligence test was staged, and in this several tied for first place, and Miss Beryl Henry won the prize, which was a diploma from the University of Hard Knocks. Mrs. Margaret Simms McDonald, state president, was present, and she told the club of the program for the National State Federation in regard to vocational guidance. Mrs. McDonald also gave a report of the Third District Conference at Hot Springs, which was attended by nearly one hundred delegates; and she asked that each one of the local clubs plan to attend the Sixth District Conference at Arkadelphia in October.

During the business session, presided over by Miss Mary Arnold, president, matters of routine importance were discussed, among these the style show to be held at the Saenger Theater on September 15. The Club is holding everything possible to help make the style show a success.

The next meeting will be held at the Barlow Hotel, with Mrs. Frank Russell as hostess, one the evening of September 15. This is to be the guest night, and a splendid program is being arranged.

How CARDUI Helps Women

"I WAS running this way a critical time in my life and I suffered a great deal," says Mrs. Mat Howard of Quilan, Texas. "I improved very much after I had taken CARDUI for a while, and then, I have given CARDUI to my five daughters. As each one of them arrived at womanhood, I gave her CARDUI for several months. I found they were less nervous and felt stronger. All of them have continued the use of CARDUI in their homes. In my home we have all been better for having taken it."
